If he were, he would be the NFL's first-ever $100 million player, according to USA Today's Jarrett Bell: Derrick Johnson's $100m salary is the NFL's highest-paid player. To find the highest-paid NFL player, I looked at how much the average player made, then compared it to how much Johnson should be making for his position. $100m is the average NFL salary in the league right now. He has been the NFL's highest-paid player since the league salary cap was implemented in 1993, which means Johnson's contract has generated more than $100 million in guaranteed money for the Kansas City Chiefs. That's because the Chiefs have been able to create a lot of cap space over the years and they've been able to count on Johnson's ability to bring them victories. This past year, the Chiefs were able to add new defensive coordinator Bob Sutton, who was Johnson's defensive coordinator from 2007-09 with the Dallas Cowboys, and defensive backs coach Derrick Kindred, who was Johnson's cornerbacks coach from 2010-13 with the New York Jets. That's why Johnson is able to earn $100 million in guaranteed money, but the Chiefs might still decide to let him walk away in free agency and let him pocket that money because it would be difficult to replace him.Q: How to use variables inside a $* operator?
