It allows you to make use of the touchscreen display to show where you want to print. It is not easy to print a specific area on the screen on an iPad, but with Airprint Expert Pro you can quickly have your screen presented to you in PDF format. With this app you can easily create an AirPrint-enabled pdf document by either tapping or double-tapping on an area of your screen. The location of the selected area is automatically saved as a document so you can reopen it later. This small utility supports Windows XP, Windows 7, Vista and Windows 8. You can easily share the AirPrint-enabled pdf document via email, Bluetooth, Facebook and Twitter, as well as print it directly from the application if you are connected to a printer. In order to add a printer to your AirPrint-enabled pdf documents, you will need to use AirPrint Expert Pro and the Apple AirPrint. For example, your iPad must be connected to a Wi-Fi network, and then you need to install the AirPrint Expert Pro software. The utility supports the AirPrint standard. If you want to print a range of screens, you can define the start and end points of the range you want to select, and also include the mouse cursor on the window you want to be presented. You can also use the page range option to print only the selected pages. The only problem with this option is that it is not as easy to define as the start and end points, but the app will display the printable pages within the area you define as a separate window. To print a range of screens, you need to enter the start and end points of the range you want to be presented, while the mouse cursor is displayed on the window you want to be presented.
